

Jamie Taylor

Now establishing himself as one of the UK's leading jazz guitarists and teachers, Hofner Artist Jamie Taylor's playing has drawn praise from top critics like The Guardian's John Fordham and Jazzwise's Robert Shore, having been heard at a long list of venues, in the company of leading European jazz musicians, such as Steve Fishwick, Baptiste Herbin, Sebastiaan DeKrom, Laura Jurd, David Lyttle, Alan Barnes, Jim Mullen, Jamil Sheriff, Tom Harrison, and Gary Potter. He has also been featured on recordings for the jazz labels Candid and GLP.

Jamie is currently a Principal Lecturer in Jazz Guitar at Leeds College of Music, the UK's largest conservatoire. The school's full-time jazz degree course is one of the oldest in Europe (having started in 1967) and Jamie held the post of Course Leader for this program between 2007-2009.

For more information about Jamie, visit <http://www.jamie-taylor.com/> ^ ^ ^

PRESS:

• "An uncanny ability"
Matt Warnock, Just Jazz Guitar

• "Taylor is a name to watch out for."
Stephen Graham, Marlbank

• "An alternative perspective on the blues legacy, taking in elements of swing, bop, and funk. It's clever, engaging stuff."
Robert Shore, Jazzwise

• "(Jamil Sheriff) gives the soloists in a fine northern orchestra their cues; Jamie Taylor's edgy guitar burns through."
John Fordham, The Guardian

^

^